

FELLOW-PASTOR HEARD ILL BACK LINKED WITH CRIMINALITY

COUNTING MAYOR CURLEY'S MAIL VOTE IN THE 'CRADLE OF LIBERTY'

Two scenes attending tabulation of Mayor Curley's mail ballot today. Photo at left shows postal workers transferring the votes—some 20,000 in number—to Faneuil Hall, where the ballots were counted. The votes were delivered at the hall under police guard. Photo at right shows expert accountants busy tabulating the returns.

Mayor Curley and his candidate, Pier Commissioner Glynn, were present when the count was made. Glynn held a big lead on his rivals from the start.

GLYNN LEADS IN COUNT OF MAIL VOTE

16 men over the top in one wave and the count 16 attacked the ballot avidly.

It was slow work opening the envelopes, however, and finally an electric letter opener was brought down from City Collector McMorris's office.

The Mayor's candidate, Pier Commissioner Glynn, a host of newspaper reporters, but no full official newspaper committee, as had been announced originally by the Mayor to be present, witnessed the tabulating.

Our candidates had been invited to send representatives to view the counting, but if the representatives were present they were ineligible as the Democrats say.

Not until today was the tabulating expected to be completed and Mayor Curley announced that to take the aroma away from the preferential primary, he would burn all the ballots in the public square before Faneuil Hall, proving that he has no intention of checking up on the numbers he makes in which city employs vote.

On the other angle of the mayoralty fight, a rumor was rife today that Cook and Purcell would be children, but in this connection filled with more rumors than anything else, it was given little credence.

It had less credence when State Auditor Cook, a leader of the anti-Nichols' open warfare on the Cook signatures, sent Edmund Webster of the State auditor's office to check over the 3,000 Nichols nomination signatures.

Each candidate hoped to discover enough irregular signatures—that is signatures listed down in the same handwriting—to cut down the Nichols' total number and perhaps eliminate him.

Before this could happen, however, a protest would have to be made to the Ballot Law Commission composed of the city election commissioners and Chief Justice Bolger of the Municipal Court, and, if possible, the upholding of the protest.

FAILED TO FILE PROTESTS.

After a couple of hours spent in searching, however, both Nichols' expert and Cook's man left the election commissioners' office without making protest of any signatures. Nor could anything be learned at either campaign headquarters as to the outcome of the examination.

Mayor Curley today answered the call made upon him by former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald's rally, to get down to the candidates' table and agree on one to oppose Mal Nichols.

At the hour approaches for the announcement of the preferential primary results and the election of the city, the candidates are in a state of intense, faded, said the Mayor.

If some Democrat other than Glynn is the choice of that primary, Glynn will withdraw in his favor and I shall support him.

"An announcement from the candidates for the primary, however, the decision of this primary, would be materially in disquieting doubt as to the outcome of the election."

HINTS AT 'RESENTATION.'

In his speech, the Fitzgerald candidate, Joseph H. O'Neill, not to be outdone by Candidate John A. Keilher, promised today a sensational discussion of the campaign in the Boston Theatre tomorrow night. Keilher's rally, at which he has promised to make an expose, comes tonight at the same theatre.

General Charles Cole, John F. Fitzgerald, Ex-Governor Eugene M. Foss and Congressman Douglas are among the speakers at the big O'Neill rally.

Richard C. Kirby of East Boston, known for years as a Curley supporter, came out to Thomas C. O'Brien today and will preside at an "Olden truly tomorrow night in the auditorium of East Boston High School."

His bride has been a widow 18 years. They are to live in Stollie, N. H.

INTERESTING DEFENSE WOODS

Offended to have admitted him to the room with women of his kind, the first defense witness today was the Rev. Andrew Cronin, pastor of the Protestant Episcopal Church. He testified that many years ago, while attending theological school, he had been in an affair between Lillback and Mrs. Tarravancian.

The witness said he heard from Mrs. Tarravancian that Lillback had been in trouble between Mr. and Mrs. Tarravancian because of Lillback's infidelity.

Previously the Rev. Carl Hendrickson of Quincy had taken the stand for the plaintiff and refuted the statement of Mrs. J. M. Pollack of Minneapolis that Lillback had been in trouble between Mr. and Mrs. Tarravancian because of Lillback's infidelity.

The Rev. Mr. Hendrickson testified that in the Fall of 1904 Lillback was in the city of Minneapolis and that he could not have been in Minneapolis at the woman claimed.

Taking the stand in his own behalf, the Rev. Mr. Lillback testified that he had never been in the city of Minneapolis at the time of the alleged affair between Lillback and Mrs. Tarravancian.

Attorney Marvin Taylor, asked the court, recognized the Rev. Mr. Lillback, and when given an affidavit the only reply read the records of the city.

CONVULSED MATRIMONY.

The excerpt from the Scriptures was offered in support of Pastor Lillback's testimony that the poverty and great suffering in the family of Mrs. Tarravancian of Quincy had prompted him to write the disputed article rather than any amorous impulse.

Speculators, counsel and court at times agreed with past testimony of Attorney Taylor read Psalm 51 as follows:

"Have mercy upon me, O God, according to thy loving kindness, as according unto the multitude of thy tender mercies, but cut my transgressions."

"Wash me thoroughly from mine iniquity, and cleanse me from my sin."

"For I acknowledge mine iniquity, and my sin is ever before me. Against thee, true only, have I sinned, and done thee evil in thy sight; that thou mightest be justified when thou speakest, and be clear when thou judgest."

"Behold, I was shaped in iniquity; and in sin did my mother conceive me."

"Behold thou desirest truth in the hidden parts, and in the hidden parts thou shalt make me to know wisdom."

"Purge me with hyssop, and I shall be clean; wash me, and I shall be whiter than snow."

"Make me to hear joy and gladness; that the bones which thou hast broken may rejoice."

"Hide thy face from my sins, and blot out all mine iniquities."

"Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit within me."

"Cast me not away from thy presence; and take not Thy holy spirit from me."

"Restore unto me the joy of thy salvation; and uphold me by thy free spirit."

"Then will I teach transgressors thy ways; and sinners shall be converted unto thee."

"Deliver me from bloodguiltiness, O God; thou God of my salvation; and my tongue shall sing aloud of thy righteousness."

"O Lord, upon what hope is my life; and my mouth shall show forth thy praise."

"For thou desirest not sacrifice; thou wouldst give me, thou delightest not in burnt offering."

"The sacrifices of God are a broken spirit; a broken and contrite heart, O God, thou wilt not despise."

HUNT MISSING SALE GIRL IN LAWRENCE

Heard the missing girl has been seen. It was also learned that while Miss Taylor drew $18 in pay from the department store where she was employed Monday morning, she did not touch her account in a local bank.

It was determined that the young man with whom the girl corresponded, according to her California address, was a radio operator on a steamer.

NO RESPONSIBILITY.

Police are considering the possibility that Winifred became dependent after the departure of the young man, and decided to leave home. Mentioning her mother said weeping in their home at No. 18 Raymond street, speculating on the fate of her daughter.

Convinced by now that her daughter must have met with foul play, yet the mother sputters tremulously at her feet at every footstep beyond the threshold—only to shut sorrowfully down again when it is proved to be no such alarm.

Six days ago pretty Winifred draped a coat over her shoulders and stepped out into the night, calling back, her mother declared today, that she would return with some change in fifteen minutes.

Counting off the dates of Winifred's absence on trembling fingers, Mrs. Taylor, pale and haggard from the stress of a loving mother's concern over her child's safety, said:

"It has been less than a week, one, two, three, four, five, six nights since Winifred disappeared. She threw a coat around her shoulders, and called to say she was running down to the corner to meet some change, and would bring them back with her in fifteen minutes."

"Then, this midnight, then finally five nights she had been away and I was half crazy. My father notified the police Tuesday night when he felt something terrible must be keeping our girl from her home."

"Winifred had been all excited about a Halloween party she was going to, she talked of nothing else, and was in the habit of going out when she ran out the door last Friday night. Her little crowd of three young men, two of them were with the fun and was bubbling over with the wine and the excitement of the night."

"It was a very old-fashioned type of girl, Mrs. Taylor lovingly described her lost daughter, to the Boston Evening American. Dimpled, laughing, fair-skinned, and clinging to the mode of dressing her blonde hair as a maid of long ago, in two demure 'buns' on each side of her head."

TELEGRAMS TO RURAL SOUTH DELAYED

Because of labor trouble among signmen employed by the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad, an indefinite delay in the reception and transmission of telegrams at joint way stations of that road in the State of Alabama, Georgia and Florida was announced today by the Western Union Telegraph Co.

According to George L. Mackover, manager of the Western Union in Boston, the labor trouble is inconsequential and will not interfere with the regular routine handling of business in the South, with the exception of telegrams which are served by the Western Union direct.

12 ARE SAVED

Glochester, Oct. 22 (A.P.)—The auxiliary schooner Niagara, reported sunk today off Weymouth, sailed out of Gloucester yesterday under Captain Lee Murray to begin mackerel fishing off Cape Cod. A telegram received today from Provincetown announced the sinking of the vessel and said that all hands were saved.

She was owned by Murray & Carr of this city and was a converted tugboat displacing eighty-one tons gross.

COLOMBEL MITCHELL will be tried by twelve solemn generals for breach of discipline, which really means for criticizing the stupidly incompetent management of the air forces of the United States.

Will the twelve solemn generals condemn or dismiss Colonel Mitchell for telling the truth, and if they do, what will the President do about it?

ONE FACT may comfort Colonel Mitchell whatever happens. The people are with him. If some nation well equipped with flying machines should attack this country and bombard a few of our cities, destroying them with ease and dispatch, those twelve generals would not cut much figure. And President Coolidge, moved by public opinion, would end the trial and put Mitchell in charge of aerial defenses.

THE TWELVE WARRIORS presiding at Mitchell's trial include six brigadier-generals and six major-generals. How much do the twelve, put together, know about Hyatt? That's what interests the people of the United States that pay the salaries of the twelve generals, of Colonel Mitchell and President Coolidge.

ANOTHER CHEERFUL DAY in Wall Street; a two and one-half million share day; exact figures, 5,177,000.

There was excitement, nerve strain and howling ground mass "pots." Brokers exploded a wide market, showing that everybody is coming in.

STEELS UP, oils up, motors and rails up, stocks that had been sitting on the sidelines for some time, are now coming in.

ACCUSE 2 COPS KILLS WIFE AND OF LOAFING HIMSELF

Mary Bourgeois, the niece of the slayer, was in the house of doom an hour before the slaughter.

"My aunt was crying," she said. "My uncle was drunk. He accused her of being too friendly with another man. He said he was going to get shaved and then 'settle' with the other man. As he left, his wife told me there would be trouble in that house that night."

The family came to the house, the ten-year-old child, the ten-year-old child of Fred L. Cobb, a neighbor who summoned the police and cornered the drunken police and cornered the drunken police.

The awakened child, frightened by the excitement, was carried to the home of her grandmother near by.

The family came to the house from New Bedford three years ago. Bourgeois was a textile mill operative.

Boy is Crushed to Death by Truck

Virtually every bone in his body was broken when three-year-old Joseph Fielding was crushed to death beneath the wheels of a heavy truck in front of the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Fielding, the lady's parents, at No. 34 Laurel street, Lynn, today.

Fred D. Dearborn, 74, Lynnfield farmer and owner of the truck, picked up the boy's body and rushed to a hospital, but in vain.

The boy was taken to Lynn police headquarters in a pleasure car. He was arrested on a charge of manslaughter and admitted to bail in the sum of $5,000.

Dearborn told the police the child ran from the sidewalk to cross the street. He was unable to stop the truck, he explained, and in attempting to stop he skidded and struck the child near the curb.

Let's hope we shall have a Roman citizenship worth, and a great deal more in hard cash. We are a fortunate people, and we shall have to be so again, ready to protect from outside attack all that we have.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE tells the council of Congressional chambers that in the crime was following the war we must rely on religion as the only remedy. The President knows of "no source of moral power other than that which comes from religion."

Let's hope we shall have a Roman citizenship worth, and a great deal more in hard cash. We are a fortunate people, and we shall have to be so again, ready to protect from outside attack all that we have.

DETAILED SUGGESTIONS for curing crimes with religion were made by Hyatt. Prayer might check the big-brother, boogier, burglar, hold-up man, if he could be made to realize that twenty-five or thirty million were praying against him.

It is not denying the powers of religion, however, to suggest that an efficient police force, upon finding the bodies, the ten-year-old child of Fred L. Cobb, a neighbor who summoned the police and cornered the drunken police and cornered the drunken police.

The awakened child, frightened by the excitement, was carried to the home of her grandmother near by.

HERE'S MR. LENROOT OF BADGER STATE

Irvine L. Lenroot photographed in Boston today. He's a United States Senator of long experience in Washington and is not rated as a political friend of the La Follette regime.

SEN. LENROOT IN HUB, LAUDS MITCHELL

Asserting that Colonel William Mitchell, by his attacks on the United States air policy, had done a very great service to the country, United States Senator Irvine L. Lenroot, at the Copple Plaza today, said "our Army Defense Act of 1920 should be amended so that it would at least treat the army air service as a separate branch of the army."

Senator Lenroot qualified his praise of Colonel Mitchell by observing, "it was the Colonel could have made his attack in a less objectionable manner." He then added that he felt it would be most unfortunate for the country to lose his services, should the court-martial decide on dismissal.

"However, he may be left off with reputation," the Senator said.

Amplifying his statement he believed the army air service should be a separate unit, Senator Lenroot said:

"I believe the army air service should have its own list of promotions separately as well. Those at offices are taking, every day, the same chances they would take, at home, as in time of war. It is not fair that they should be graded, as regards promotion, with officers of other branches of the army. They should be an entirely apart, as far as promotions go."

Senator Lenroot said he didn't see how Mitchell could be exonerated in view of his own statement, and said Congress probably would not interfere.

The Senator, no stranger to Boston, is here to speak this evening at the sixteenth annual dinner of the Boston Chamber of Commerce.

3 BEVERLY BOYS FIGHT OFFICER TO ESCAPE

Held in Vermont Burglary, They Attack Him, but Are Recaptured

Brattleboro, Vt., Oct. 22 (A.P.)—Deputy Sheriff L. C. Bellows of Brattleboro was assaulted by two boys he was bringing to Brattleboro by automobile today for trial for burglary. His head was cut by bumps of coal thrown by them from the rear seat of the car.

The boys jumped out of the car and ran, but were overtaken by the officer and his chauffeur, Mario Maxwell.

Bellows was on his way here from Bennington with three boys whom he arrested yesterday in Bennington, charged with breaking into a refreshment stand owned by Victor Hayden of Boston, at the summit of Hogback Mountain in Bennington.

They were Frank Hyde, seventeen; Edward McLaughlin, fourteen; and George Hatchelder, fourteen, all of Beverly, Mass.

The automobile alleged to have been used by the boys broke down with its load of booty and was abandoned, and the number plates gave a clue on which the officer traced the boys.

TWO GIRLS HELD IN PARKWAY ROBBERY

Charged With Drugging Cambridge Man in Taxi at Fresh Pond

Miss Margaret Kelly of No. 48 Le street, Cambridge, and Miss Mildred Gardner of Mason street, Boston, who were arraigned in the East Cambridge District Court on a charge of robbery of $150 from Arthur R. Barry of No. 77 Hancock street, when it was charged, he was drugged and robbed on Fresh Pond parkway, were held in $1,000 bonds for the grand jury when Judge Edward A. Connelley Jr. found probable cause to hold both on charges of robbery.

Both girls, who were the target of all eyes in the District Court this morning because of their beauty, were arrested after Barry, the manager of a chain store, the police assert, was lured to a secluded part of the Fresh Pond parkway, robbed and left until he awoke the next morning. The robbery happened in the early morning of August 21, Barry testified that he entered a restaurant in Central square, where the two girls smiled at him and beckoned him to their table, where they asked him to sit with them. On their suggestion, he said they entered a taxi and were taken to a house on Fresh Pond parkway. When he passed his street he was asked to be let out. One of the girls told the taxi driver to go on, according to the testimony. They reached the parkway and he felt the Gardner girl's hand slip into his pocket and felt his money coming out, he testified.

He was asked to take a drink, which he refused, but it was finally forced up to his nose and he felt himself losing consciousness, Barry testified. He knew nothing, he said, until the next morning.

AILMENTS OF YOUNG GIRLS

Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound School Teacher's Experience

Evansville, Wyo.—"A few years ago I had troubles every month such as migraines, dizziness, and would suffer awfully every time. I was teaching school and it made it hard for me as I had to go to bed for two or three days. One day my mother suggested that I take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which I did, and it did wonders for me. In the course of a year I married and after my first baby was born I got up too soon and it caused a displacement. This troubled me so that I could hardly walk or do my housework. I knew what the Vegetable Compound did for me before I took it again. It strengthened me and now I have five little kiddies. The eldest is the baby is five months old and I have two boys and a three year old and two years. I do all my own housework, washing and ironing, and I never felt better in my life. I owe my health to your wonderful medicine."—Mrs. VERAUNA CARPENTER, 127 2d Avenue, Evansville, Wyo.

WHITE WORM IN THROAT KILLING PARTRIDGES

Springfield, Oct. 22 (A.P.)—William C. Adams, head of the division of fisheries and game of the State Department of Conservation, said today regarding a report by hunters that the severity of grouse, or partridge, was due to a blood-sucking fly, that these flies were not a factor but that the severity was caused by a small white worm that infests the throats of the birds. He said Professor Alfred A. Gross of Bowdoin College and Professor A. A. Allen of Cornell University, carrying on research, discovered the worm.

PRAYER TO JAZZ DURING FIRE

New York, Oct. 22 (A.P.)—Dramatic scenes aboard the steamship Comanche when fire broke out in its hold, off Florida, were described today by sixty six members of the crew returning here on the Cherokee. Women praying as they put on life belts, an orchestra of three musicians playing jazz to keep the morale, men passengers "moulding with the officers' work and playing cavaliers instead of men of help," in vain of the boat deck by men and women passengers before the fire broke out. The only passenger from the Comanche arriving on the Cherokee, Miss Christine B. Roberts of Rye, N. Y., said she did not observe any cowardice on the part of any members of the crew, as other passengers have charged. She said one lifeboat filled with negroes almost rammed another boat, leaving men, as the lifeboats neared the Rescuers, resending ship.

Endicott and Bride White House Guests

Caroline Lawrence Makes Formal Bow to Society at the Milton Club

Betty Alden

THE PRESIDENT AND MRS. COOLIDGE have as house guests today at the White House in Washington the H. Wendell Endicotts of Boston and Needham, whose marriage at Rockville, Ct., was an all-important ceremonial of the early Autumn. Mr. and Mrs. Endicott arrived at the executive mansion this noon and will be there through tomorrow.

Mrs. ENDICOTT and her BRIDE are still moving leisurely about on honeymooning bent, and plan to tarry briefly in Boston (they arrive in town on Monday before sailing early in November for a continuation of their wedding journey abroad. Later they'll establish their home hold out at the spacious Endicott mansion in Needham.

EVERYONE AGREES THAT the Endicott-Maxwell marriage ceremony and brilliant attending festivities were unimpeachably staged and took high place in the important marriage of the year. A veritable fortune in gifts descended upon the bride, and the bride, interesting of which is a large collection of personal jewelry, fit to adorn a queen, so it is said.

VERY MUCH LE DERNIER OF was Miss Caroline Lawrence, as honor guest at Mr. Stratford Weston's luncheon at the Milton Club. Her frock was of Austrian brocade, peasant red in color, with the smart white silk sleeves, (it is regular in shape, and embroidered in bright red. She wore a black velvet chapeau, a brilliantly dark contrast for the red frock.

MRS. STEPHEN B. DAYOL is working heart and soul for the Lowthorpe Endowment, in company with a distinguished coterie of Bostonians.

MRS. WENTWORTH'S COSTUME was deep lavender crepe, and Miss Nancy Wentworth, vivacious and handsome daughter of the Stratford Wentworths, wore golden brown lace. Mrs. H. Hooper Lawrence, mother of the honored bride, Miss Caroline Lawrence, wore a black gown and black chapeau.

FIFTY GIRLS GATHERED in the Milton Club, gay with chrysanthemums and Autumn leaves, as luncheon guests. Last year's girls and brides mingled—Miss Elizabeth Lockwood, Miss Louise and Miss Francis Waterman (twice debutantes last Winter), and Miss Juliet Greene, with Miss Sally Purcell of the present winter, were the company.

MISS LAWRENCE shortly is to make her formal bow at a reception at the Beacon street residence of her parents, and Miss Frances Whitcomb, a Winsor school girl, daughter of Major and Mrs. Frank Whitcomb of Cambridge, will share debutante honors at that time.

MISS FRANCES HUTCHINSON, daughter of the Sydney James Hutchinson, made her bow at the family's winter residence, Walnut street, Philadelphia. The Hutchinsons are North Shore Summer residents, the place named South Terrace, a beautiful estate in a region greatly famed for natural beauty and stately homes.

KITH AND KIN of the Hutchinson-Stotesbury families (Mrs. Hutchinson was Edith L. Stotesbury) including Misses John Kearley Mitchell, Edward T. Stotesbury, S. Seymour Hutchinson and John Cunningham Stevens, presided at the tables.

IN THE SIMPLEST of white crepe frocks, similarly fashioned and placed out in ribbons, Miss Ada and Miss Delinda Dawson, daughters of the George B. Lawsons of Milton, were presented at the Milton Club. One varied her costume with a deep pink rose, the other with a bright blue blossom.

Mrs. JOSEPHINE JEWELL, debutante daughter of the Philip Jewells, wearing a smart blue crepe topped by a jaunty American Beauty felt chapeau, marshalled the brides who poured—the Misses Helen Seymour, Esther Cunningham and Caroline and Mildred Keyes.

ALSO, MISS ESTHER REARS, Miss Harriet Mason, Miss Sally Dodge, Miss Eleanor French, Miss Harriet Lee Ballou, Miss Dorothy Lawrence and Miss Katherine Dalton, a lovely array of the Winter's prominent girls.

MISS FRANCES BRADGOTT is doing a gay round in New York as the house guest of Miss (Frances) Pinchot, the daughter of Mrs. Minerva Pinchot of East St. Louis, before coming back to town for her professional work, which needs no introduction to Bostonians.

SPEAKING OF Miss Bradgott's hostess, Miss Pinchot is just now much in the public eye as society's latest convert to the stage, for that charming young woman, kin to numerous distinguished lines, is scheduled for a part in "The Miracle," the much-talked of spectacle soon making a Boston premiere.

WIDOW'S WEEDS OFF, ORANGE BLOSSOMS ON

(International News Reel Photo)
Mrs. Peter Golet Gerry, the bride today in London of the United States Senator for Rhode Island. She was Edith Stuyvesant Vanderbilt, widow of George W. Vanderbilt, and like her husband is immensely wealthy.

New York, Oct. 22 (AP).—Under the name of Lillian Winters, and later as Mrs. Edith Stuyvesant Vanderbilt, the widow of George W. Vanderbilt, she was noted for her ability to get jobs in wealthy homes as a model maid and then disappear just about the time that jewels and other robberies would occur.

SENATOR GERRY WEEDS IN THREE MINUTES

London, Oct. 22 (U.N.B.I.).—Senator Peter Golet Gerry of Rhode Island, descendant of one of the victims of the Declaration of Independence, and Mrs. Edith Stuyvesant Vanderbilt, descendant of Peter Stuyvesant and widow of George W. Vanderbilt, were married at the register's office in Prince's Row at 10 o'clock today. The superintendent registrar performed the simple ceremony, which was over in three minutes.

The bride arrived at the register's office ten minutes before Senator Gerry. She was accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. John Francis Anderson, and the secretary of the British Embassy in Washington.

Mrs. Vanderbilt was dressed in a long travelling wrap of greenish blue, heavily trimmed with great fur, and wore a small travelling hat.

IN TRAVELLING GEAR.
The Senator was accompanied by Henry Thornton, American attorney, who acted as best man. The bridegroom also was dressed for travelling with a black derby hat and long black overcoat, which he did not remove during the ceremony. It was raining heavily as the bride party drove away.

Failure of the register to arrive at the scheduled hour delayed the ceremony fifteen minutes. After the first civil ceremony was completed, Senator and Mrs. Gerry drove to the Chapel Royal Savoy, where they received a brief benediction at 10.30 a. m. from the Rev. Percy Young.

They plan a honeymoon trip to the continent before returning to Washington in time for the December reconvening of Congress.

After a wedding breakfast at the Ritz Hotel, where coats were laid for seven, the bride party boarded an airplane for Paris.

WEDDING TO GO BRIDE.
Senator Gerry's sister, Mrs. Mabel Gerry, and F. B. D. Drury are to be married in Trinity Chapel next Wednesday.

Mrs. Gerry has been reported engaged on three previous occasions since her debut in 1913. Francis Burton, Earl De Caresdale and Edward Victor Lowe were reported engaged to the bride, but it was said each time that the marriage was forbidden by her father, Commodore Eldridge T. Gerry.

Mrs. Gerry received a fourth of the $14,000,000 estate of her mother, as did Senator Gerry. Mr. Drury is a son of the late Andrew Drury, former chaplain of the House of Commons. They will be married in Trinity Chapel next Wednesday.

BANK IS LOOTED CLEAN OF $110,000 BY CRACKERS

Rushville, N. Y., Oct. 22. (A.P.)—The Rushville state bank was robbed of all the money and valuables in the safe and office, which a deputy sheriff said might amount to $110,000 in currency and perhaps $100,000 in registered bonds.

When Cashier Charles Lazzarini went to the bank he noticed the windows had been covered from the inside with tar paper. The safe, which had been moved to the rear, weighed two tons.

The bank was closed for several days. The police are now searching for the robbers.

IMPETUOUS ROSEMARY by Baroness Orczy

A Story of Love and Mystery
That Bares the Heart of the Chief Plotter

PETER BLAKENEY, a carefree young man, is in love with Rosemary Fowkes, but he forgets to propose, and Jasper Tarkington wins her. Rosemary, a writer, is induced to go to Transylvania and arrange a series of articles intended to clear the air of much international unpleasantness. Instantly she finds herself in the midst of a group of plotters. Even her best friends are arrested as spies, and though her husband is a great help, he always seems to fail in his efforts. So Rosemary decides to watch and wait.

Rosemary had made up her mind—the articles should be written. With Jasper's notes before her, she began to write. Six hours later the task was done.

(Copyright 1935, Charles G. Barnes Company)

CHAPTER XXII

BUT a moment or two later a curious thing happened. Jasper had gone out of the room, and Rosemary was looking out into the approaching storm. She had not heard what Jasper had said just before he kissed her hand; but her mind must have registered it, must have made a kind of record of it, like that of a gramophone, because now some of his words came back to her. She had not heard him then, but she heard him now quite distinctly—every word.

"I have jotted down a few ideas. You, of course, will put them into your own picturesque language."

Then he had put something down on the table. Like a sleep-walker Rosemary went to the table and picked up the sheets.

With the papers in her hand Rosemary went out on the balcony. She knew quite well what was written, and deliberately she sat down and began to read.

The political and economic situation of Transylvania was stated in these brief notes with remarkable lucidity. Jasper's rise, under the auspices of the administration of the conquered country, was set forth without any imagery or attempt at style. Even the obvious bias in favor of the ruling Government was tempered by sound logic and a certain measure of indulgent toleration for the other side.

Now came presently into the room and turned on the lights, she inquired anxiously whether the precious lady would not come in as it was raining and the storm would be breaking soon.

Then only did Rosemary become conscious that her hair and her dress were wet. She came in and quite mechanically she looked the papers up in her dressing case.

The rest of the evening was like a dream. Elms presided at dinner and Jasper did most of the talking—that is to say, Elms asked unanswerable questions to which Jasper gave long replies, with forced cheerfulness.

Alone Again

At ten o'clock Rosemary found herself once more alone in her room. Jasper had kissed her tenderly when he had gone to bed last night. Only when she did find herself alone did Rosemary realize how much she had dreamed this evening. She knew that she had a power of strength left to such one. If Jasper's advice was to be followed, Rosemary had dismissed Elms. She undressed her hair and laid only to chemise and petticoat, she sat down at the table with Jasper's notes before her, and she began to write. After that she began to write. She sat Jasper's notes in front of her, and she put them, as he had suggested, into her well-known, picturesque language.

The hours she sat there writing it was the longest spell of solitude

555 AUTOS BARE 'MANY STOLEN IN BOSTON' STOLEN IN 'LOVES' OF TURFMAN

Many Taken to Canada and to Providence "Fences" to Be Sold

Since October 1, 536 automobiles have been stolen in Greater Boston, the police announced today.

Also, there is on the increase. They admit quite unofficially that the way there are several reasons why the loss of autos is increasing and that, at the same time, the police are doing their best to keep the number of stolen autos down.

Most of the stolen cars are sold in Providence or in Canada, the police say. In Providence, however, it is also done and there are many "fences" here. In Canada, however, the owners are not so easily fooled and the cars are sold at a profit to many of the difference is large.

The automobiles lost are charged against the cars in police stations. As follows: Hanover street, 15; North street, 34; Joy street, 14; Lawrence street, 14; East Dedham street, 2; Atlantic street, 17; East Boston, 2; Dudley street, 14; Roxbury Crossing, 1; South street, 14; City Point, 2; Centre Plain, 1; Brighton, 14; Chelsea, 16; Back Bay, 14; Mattapan, 12.

Of the 536 stolen cars have been recovered, it is admitted. Indicating how in some instances at least the autos were misappropriated instead of stolen.

Trunks and a certain percentage of cars, the police say, are being used for the purpose of stealing. They are used for the purpose of stealing. They are used for the purpose of stealing.

All these things are misappropriations. They are used for the purpose of stealing. They are used for the purpose of stealing.

One man also stole twelve machines before he was arrested. Then he was allowed to go on bail. And while on bail he stole thirty-five more machines, so the police charge.

He was arrested and again he was allowed to go on bail. And that time he disappeared in the direction of Canada.

Some recent "phishes" have been made in the name of the police. Faked registration plates are not a novelty any more.

These plates are made in the name of the police. Faked registration plates are not a novelty any more.

Low ball is said by the police to be the name of their latest scheme. They are used for the purpose of stealing.

OBERLANDER WILL BE BIG NOISE AT STADIUM

TOUGH GAME IN SIGHT, SAYS COACH HAWLEY

awley means that the Harvard team will be a tough one to beat. "I'm not saying much about Harvard for one moment until I don't want you fellows to be fooled. The defeat of Harvard by Holy Cross is the worst thing that could have happened to us. The Crimson team have their backs to the wall and they will be a tough outfit to beat."

I am hoping for the best and I have all the confidence in the world in Dartmouth, but any team which has not had a first down made on the field this season demands the respect of all.

The victory squad reported at the stadium at 11 a. m. and had a two-hour practice. The three teams which left for Boston today, according to signal practice.

Then there was a dummy scrimmage against Harvard. The men are all in the best physical condition. There are a few minor injuries but the men are all and first string are at it.

The annual is in fact a game. It was against Harvard last year. The cold weather of this week has put Dartmouth right on edge for a hard game.

Although there has been a ten-day drop among the undergraduates to look upon the Harvard game as a real one, every player on the squad is looking for the hardest game of the year to be played in the Stadium on Saturday.

Harvard has been mounted well by Dartmouth. The reports which "Wah" Jennings and his assistant scouts brought back to Halloway this week knocked all thoughts of the weakness of the Crimson out of the heads of the players. They have that Harvard has one of the greatest defensive lines in the history of the game.

SOMETHING LIKE A HARRY
Although the running attack of Dartmouth has already established a fine reputation, it will receive its first real test of the season on Saturday.

Herb Treat Is Sorting Out the Real Dope

WHAT about the Harvard-Dartmouth game? Who's going to win? What will the score be? These are the questions the football fans all over New England are asking. In the Saturday Sport Special of the Boston Evening American Herb Treat will give his answer.

The whole town was buzzing last Saturday when Treat declared the Big Three would be beaten. Yale and Harvard W.F.U. and Princeton was held to a tie. That is not only GOOD predicting, but it is PRACTICALLY PERFECT predicting.

Now everybody is waiting for Treat to call the tone on the big gridiron battle of the approaching weekend. He doesn't make a blind stab. He sits down with all the dope at his command and figures it out. He knows the coaches, the players, the condition of the teams, the lineups. He knows football, for he was picked by Walter Camp from the undefeated Princeton team of 1922 as an All-American tackle.

Each week the task of calling the winners grows more difficult. But each week Herb Treat tears into it. And his average is all O. K.

Is your town growing? If so, it is lagging behind.

The census bureau at Washington has just issued figures covering city populations and they reveal some startling changes.

A Puzzled Old Hen

show the divided viewpoint of the people of the United States on Prohibition.

Mr. Hanny, of the Philadelphia Inquirer, shows the United States as an old hen that has hatched out a mixed setting of eggs, half ducks, half chickens. The little ducks are "wets" and dash in for a good drink. The little chickens are "drys" and stay on shore "cheeping" dismally close to their dear old mother, who is also OFFICIALLY a "dry."

These little ducks and chickens don't speak the same language or think the same thoughts. The little chickens must be dry all the time or he dies. The little duck must be wet very frequently and have a chance to paddle around, or he dies.

Nature, perhaps wiser than men, arranges it so that the little duck can be wet, and the little chicken can be dry, without interfering with each other.

The little duck doesn't try to drag the little chicken into the water, declaring, "YOU MUST BE WET BECAUSE I AM WET." And the chicken doesn't try to pull the little duck out of its favorite wet puddle and say, "COME OUT OF THERE, KEEP DRY. I AM DRY, so you MUST BE DRY."

Human beings are not built like ducks or chickens. When a human being is dry, he wants everybody to be dry. When a human being is wet, he doesn't care so much whether others are wet also perhaps, but he does demand the right to be wet for his own satisfaction.

Mr. Warren in the Cleveland News, ably edited by the grandsons of Mark Hanna, presents Uncle Sam with bifocal glasses. The upper part shows prohibition a success, the lower part shows prohibition a failure.

Bifocal Prohibition

Nobody knows exactly WHAT is coming out of the prohibition tangle and discussion. A report on prohibition prepared by eminent church authorities leaves you in the dark. The church report admits frankly that it cannot tell whether prohibition is successful or not. Reports made by "dry" and "wet" enthusiasts are not altogether reliable.

The dry points to more money in the savings banks, fewer people in the prisons.

The wet points to deaths from bootleg, wood alcohol whiskey, a great deal of insanity, and above all to a WAVE OF CRIME as has never been known, and which WITHOUT ANY QUESTION is born of bootlegging which in its turn is born of prohibition.

Each reader will form his own opinion. Some think you ought to let the little wet ducks enjoy their wetness, while the little dry chickens enjoy their dryness.

Others feel that the little dry chickens, being more moral, should compel the little wet duck to behave himself.

Mr. Ashley Submits a "Lesson"

They are going to have a spelling bee, down in New Bedford, and the Evening Standard of that city has been asking distinguished residents to submit ten difficult words apiece, in order that would-be champion spellers may have something to exercise upon.

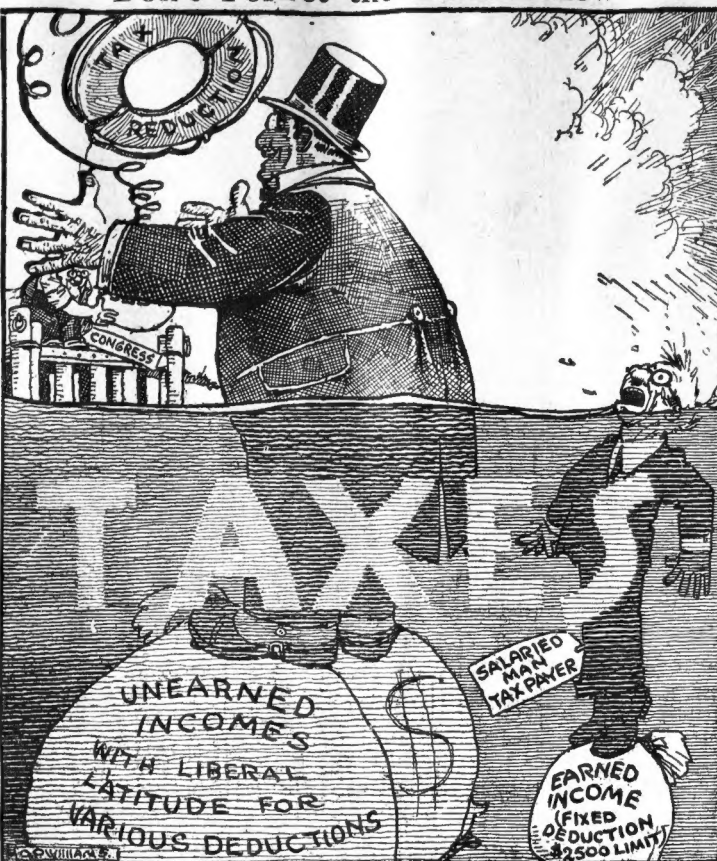

Among those invited to name the words which "make them stop and think a minute" is Charles S. Ashley, twenty-two times Mayor of the city.

Here is former Mayor Ashley's list of ten difficult words:

Don't Forget the Little Fellow

HIGH surtaxes may handicap the big man's BUSINESS. But even normal taxes cramp the little man's LIVING.

When the big business man faces a heavy surtax there are many ways in which he can pass this cost on to his business.

When the little man faces a tax on his salary, all too often there is nothing for him to do but cut down expenses. He must

MEDBURY SAYS—

By John P. Medbury
ACCORDING to financial statesmen, America is the greatest country in the world for credit. People are born on the installment plan and buried on deferred pay.

EVEN our wealthiest families have opened an account with the store.

IT'S not only the poor people who have to get their children through a finance company.

THEY come into the world on a dollar down and leave it on a dollar a week.

THERE'S only one thing we have to pay cash for and that costs about eight dollars a quart.

COUPLES are even getting married on credit.

THOUSANDS of ministers have had to install bookkeeping departments.

A MAN can now obtain a wife for one third down and the balance in twelve months.

AT the end of the year you take your marriage license to the preacher and he stamps it paid. THIS will do away with bigamy. A man won't be able to get another wife until he settles for the first one.

THE average man pays promptly because he doesn't want his children to grow up and find that he still owes the minister for their mother.

BREIDEN, it's a great feeling to have a wife who's paid for.

ONE fellow owed a person so much money that he had to go to church.

HE didn't know that it was against the law to collect a bill on Sunday.

HE was very religious. He used to go to church regularly every week and pray for an extension of credit.

THE undertaker is the man who hates to give terms. It's hard enough to collect a bill when a customer has gone out of the state, but it's still harder when he's left the earth.

SHUT MIND'S DOOR ON WORRY THOUGHTS

By DR. FRANK CRANE

KEEP the door of your mind shut against all undesirable and depressing thoughts. These thoughts will come to you and perhaps you cannot help their coming. But you can shut them out and refuse to entertain them.

Nine-tenths of the sweetness and stability of one's nature depends upon his power to refuse to think of certain things. A man is fortunate if he has some subjects that are agreeable to him and are constructive in their nature to which he can turn his mind in case he is tempted to think destructive things.

The art of happy living is closely connected with the art of controlling one's thoughts.

The cause of much despondency and even of suicide is thinking constantly on unpleasant subjects.

If you have to think of an unpleasant thing, if it is a fact, and you cannot get away from it, set apart a certain time to devote to it, think of it thoroughly, and when you are through quit. Don't let it keep on annoying you. It will sap your strength and deplete your capacity.

The secret of the happy life is found within. If we cannot control the things which come to us we can control our use of them. A man's mind is as if he were standing upon a bridge. All sorts of objects float down on the stream under him and he can either let them pass through, or he can divert them.

Much morbidity and even criminality, is avoided by the agility with which you can get back to subjects which are helpful and avoid those which are dangerous.

There are some things that are like vegetables stored in the cellar. If we are not careful to keep them dry and to stir them occasionally they will rot.

There are some minds which seem to be going about with a cellar full of diseased matter in them. They are not healthful and they are not pleasant to meet.

It is a good plan to think of the decayed subjects and all the disease-breeding subjects out of the cellar of your mind.

MANY PUZZLED BY WATER PRESSURE

By Garrett P. Service.

Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

THERE is more deception about water than is advertised in prohibition circles.

The law of pressure that it obeys seems to be forever misleading somebody, so far even as to induce a belief that if you put a fish in a pail of water the pail will weigh no more than the water inside.

This affords an opportunity for the application of that ever-victorious common sense which the Minutemen regard as a tyrant whose grave should be thrown off.

A Chicago reader sends me the following: "Myself and friends were arguing about the increase of weight of water arising from the placing of an object to float half submerged upon the water. Assuming that the bulk and weight of wood and water are the same, and the block is one-half submerged, we place a pound block afloat on 100 pounds of water."

Water has the property, common to liquids, of distributing the pressure in all directions. If it buys up a solid body the force exerted is balanced by a proportional increase of pressure. The downward pressure equals the upward pressure.

If instead of a block of wood a water displaced by either the partial, or the complete, submergence of the block. If the block weighs ten pounds it adds just ten pounds to the total weight in the tank, whether or not a part of it is kept above water level by the buoyant power.

If you could take away that half the block which projects above the water, instantly the submerged part would rise half out of the water while the level of the water around it would proportionally sink, and that total added pressure, due to the presence of the block, would become five pounds and half of that again would be supported out of water.

INSINCERITY DISAPPOINTS THOSE WHO TRUST YOU

Are you insincere?

Because you are insincere in friendship which you profess for others you are skeptical about the real value of any degree of friendship which others may express for you.

You have given certain reasons to think that you would stand by in any sort of trouble, but you know that you would not.

Are you not ashamed when you think of the deception you practice? If you were only true and honest you could get so much more out of life.

In other words, if you could honor yourself for your truth and sincerity at all times you would think more of yourself.

Always thinking in terms of personal gain, you saddle others who have thought they might look to you for help.

This is a mean disposition, is it not?

And when you think about yourself as you really are you have reason to be disgusted.

Doesn't something tell you that you are missing a lot by your insincerity?
